These Southern leaders would dreadful slanghter; the other immolates not have been directly affected. They were for no compromise; but they could not have enlisted the people in the war. These Southern conspirators were afraid of conciliation. They did what they could to arrest it. They sat sullenly in the Senate refusing to vote upon measures of compromise. Ambition prompted their course. On the other hand, party pride and superciliousness led this Republican party to reject all measures of conciliation. If the people at home had been properly represented, the result would have been otherwise; but the members of Congress, partisan-like, turned generally a deaf ear to conciliation. It-is true the Government had a right to enforce obedience to the laws; but wise men will exhaust all means of conciliation before resorting to the sword.

It is vain to recur to this now; except to place men where they belong in the contest. These Republicans are eager enough to put down rebellion. In that they gratify with his inclination and for his own gratialmost unrebuked in the capital. A Memthe Union, to sacrifice a little party pride,

I have often wondered why it was that the Secesh occupied these Gaps; for thero are several of them, you must know—the Cumberland, Roger's, Wilson's, and Big Creek —all within a range of 33 miles, and all leading into this, Powell's Valley. Powell's Valley is a narrow, beantiful, and a most productive strip of land lying at the foot of the range of the Cumberland Mountains, over fifty miles in length, and rangbounded on the south side by a low range of small hills. It is, truly, the garden spot of the Southern Confederacy. As soon as you get sight of it, from the top of the mountain, you see the most magnificent sight that ever the eye looked upon. It goes so far ahead of anything I ever witnessed on canvass, that I was perfectly enchanted for the time being. It is convenient to the line of railroad running to Virginia and the South, and is well capable of sup-plying the whole rebel forces with provisions for some time to come, and "that ac-counts for the milk in the cocoa nut." It is my opinion that the position that our divisour country and our cause, may God, in His mercy and wisdom, assist our commanding officer in carrying out his plans and designs in clearing this most beautiful section of our country of the vile presence of the thieving marauders that now infest it! As soon as our forces had got clearly away from the vicinity of Flat Lick, where all our division stores were kept, some hellbound (or hounds) of Secessia fired two of the largest warehouses, and destroyed several thousand dollars' worth of ment stores and property. The incendia-ries have not been discovered as yet.

on a large scale, two miles north of George-town, is entertained by the Government. NEW YORK, June 26.

A letter from Mr. Raymond to the Times says General McClellan is bringing up from Yorktown siege guns, some of which have already arrived. The rebels show no disposition to assume the offensive again, in force; but are evidently preparing to resist an attack. Their occasional demonstrations, like those of Saturday night, seem intended to draw us in an attack; but they have no General who is capable of making McClellan fight until he gets ready; nor of making him fight upon a plan of their selection. It was agreed between Colonel Key and General Howell Cobb, in their recent conference, that surgeons taken on the field should not be regarded as prisoners of war, but as non-combatants. This arrangement has been sent to Washington for approval. WASHINGTON, June 25.

The Owen County Affair. The Lexington Observer, of the 26th, rives the following particulars of the affair in Owen county last Friday:

On Monday evening Captain W. W. Bradley, of Harrison county, arrived in this city with thirteen prisoners from the scene of the ontrage, who detailed to us the facts in wishes, promising to be with them on Saturday. This would not answer—the speak-ing had to come off on Friday, and Mr. Rankin secured the services of a Mr. Smith, a prominent Union man, to make the desired speech. Mr. Smith accordingly delivered a strong Union speech, after which a series of resolutions were introduced, which all present were to sign. About the time the signing commenced, Capt. Bakes, with his company of Home Guards, from Grant county, made their appearance—upon which a signal gun was fired—two of his men were shot dead, and himself and another of his men wounded. Capt. Bakes, doubtless feeling himself largely outnumbered, retreated.

About twenty minntes after the attack upon Bakes, Capt. Bradley arrived on the ground with his company, when the crowd immediates ately surrounded him. One man had the temerity to rush into his ranks and shout for Jeff. Davis and the Sonthern Confederacy. He was warned to stand back and be silent, but insultingly preserved, until receiving a shot through the head which killed him instantly. This, and the firm-ness evinced by Bradley and his men, cooled and scattered the mob. As Capt. Bradley was moving away with twelve prisoners in charge, a man by the name of Foster, mistaking the Home Guards for his own gnerrilla party, ran in among them and was taken prisoner. This man, Rev. Henry T.

Foster, is decidedly a character, and we cannot refrain from devoting a little space to him. After being arre-ted he endeavored to make his escape through the woods, when some thirty-five shots were fired at him, one of which passed through his for two weeks preceding this raid with a guerrilla camp near Lusby's Mills. He also states that there was another camp not far distant. He informed us that it was his family who raised the ridiculous cry of a negro insurrection in Owen, which caused so much alarm some time since. He is the ame Rev. H. T. Foster who was taken in Clarke county, in the troop of rebels bound for Hamphrey Marshall's camp, by Colonel Craddock and Major Buckner, some months since. A more hardened rebel and sinner than this wicked, hoary-headed man does restraints. That this whole affair may be more perfectly nuderstood-why the Home Guard nearly at the same time. &c .- we will explain, according to the information we de rived from Captain Bradley. Bakes and Bradley's companies met at Owenton a few days preceding the affair at Lusby's Mills, the latter having in his possession twelve prisoners whom he had arrested in different parts of the county, whom he intended to convey to Berry's Station for transportation to Lexington. After consultation the two Captains agreed to take different rontes to the station, that being the destination of both. Captain Bradley was to go one way, whilst Captain Bakes was to pass Lusby's where it was understood a meeting was to be held on Saturday. Bradley thinks this arrangement was divulged by some bystander in Owenton, and the information conveyed to the guerilla camp. He (Bradthey informed him, when within three miles of Lusby's Mills, that a fight was going on there, to which point he immediately pro-ceeded. The bloodshed that marked this raid was certainly not anticlpated by the It is the opinion of Capt. Brad ley that the pretended Union meeting at Lusby's Mills, so near the guerrilla camp, which Foster states had been in existence for two weeks, was a mere trap to catch and assassinate

The guerrilla camps in Owen were organized, according to Foster's statement, by a Capt. Bullitt, who has been pretty constant ly on the ground swearing in all who might and the Southern Confederacy. Bullitt and his gang of desperadoes, however, will not have much longer time for play in Owen or any other county in Kentucky, as a sufficient force is in pursuit to fully arrest their evil doings. If the halter, which they righly deserve, does not catch some of them we shall be surprised.

We have had no news from Col. Warner's other sources that the guerrillas have dispersed, and quiet has again been pretty well restored. If this is not so, it will not be long before they will be settled thoroughly.

The following is a list of the brought to this city by Capt. Bradley: Garland A. Cox, llenry county; Clemson forwarded for the action of the President of the United States, without whose order no such sentence in such cases will be executed.

HIGH SCHOOL .- Last evening the large hall in Masonic Temple presented a grand and imposing appearance. Never have we on any former occasion witnessed such a large, fashionable and delighted audience. At 8 o'clock the graduates appeared on the stage, which was handsomely decorated with flags. Prayer was offered, and the exercises began. It were needless for us to make any comments whatever on any part of the exhibition, for we are confident that each and all went far beyond the expectations of their many friends. The readings were fine, the compositions were beautifully composed and read, and the sweet voices in song, under the skillful instruction of our musical friend, Prof. H. G. S. Whipple, added greatly to the interest. In fact, all that was intended to be accomplished we are happy and proud to say was crowned onr citizens look upon it as one of the ble. We subjoin the proudest institutions in the State. Prof. Bliss, with the aid of his assistants, has made it such, and great credit is due him as a gentleman and a thorough scholar, for his untiring energy and good management during his administration as the principal. We carnestly hope that this entertainment may be repeated as soon as convenience will pormit, as hundreds went away disappointed in not witnessing the most pleasing and instructive entertainment of the kind ever given in this city. We hope the fair graduates will consent to repeat, and we promise that a large audience will greet them with their smiles of approbation.

From East Tennessee and Georgia.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Intelligencer of the 18th contains the following:

KNOXVILLE June 16. Enemy went back through Big Creek Gap. Large Federal forces reported at Pikeville and Crossville.

[Pikeville is near the head of Sequatchie Valley, and Crossville is about thirty miles distant, on Cumberland Mountain. It is supposed these two forces will unite at Post Oak Spring; seven miles west of Kingston, and attempt to march through Kingston, to Loudon bridge on Knoxville.—Eds. Intelligencer.]

Latelligencer.]

Again:

All the information we can acquire from all the information we can acquire from expressed a few days since, that the Yan-tees will move on East Tennessee in two or three separate columns at the same time. An attack will be made on Chattanooga, on the same time.

An attack will be made on Chattanooga, on the same time.

Those will be made on Chattanooga, on the same time.

Those wall be made on Chattanooga, on the same time.

Those wall be made on the same time. every source confirms us in the opinion we expressed a few days since, that the Yankees will move on East Tennessee in two or three separate columns at the same time. An attack will be made on Chattanooga, on Knoxville or Loudon Bridge, through Kingston, and through the gaps of the Mountains into Powell's Valley simultaneously. The object of the enemy in this strategy is to divide the forces under General Smith and overcome them in detail, by superior numbers. We therefore urge again upon our authorities to send up all the reinforcements to East Tennessee that can possibly be spared from other points.

THE ENERY'S DESIGN ON CHATTANOGA-ITS REAL DANGER.

On yesterday, in announcing the fact that the enemy had retired from before Chatta. nooga, we expressed a doubt as to his future designs upon that important point. We are now satisfied as to his designs The attempt, and a formidable one it will be, will be soon made to capture that The evidence is before us. From the best authority, we learn that the enemy are encamped some eighteen miles below Chat-tanooga, on the opposite side of the river— the force that attacked that city on Saturday and Sunday last having fallen back that far. That force is now engaged in sawing lumber, and appear to be working as though they were making flatboats. With them is a gunboat, some two and a half miles below their present encampment It is a flatboat, with stationary power put on for propelling it, and has three pieces of cannon on board.

The object of this craft, doubtless, was to tow flats under cover of its guns, in crossing the river with troops. Such is the position now of the enemy, and such are his preparations for another advance on Chattanooga.

We are also advised that General Kirby Smith is in command, in person, of our forces at Chattanooga, and that great comfidence is reposed in him, and his ability, with his forces, to defend successfully that city. The citizens, as well as the military there, are determined not to surrender the city, but to hold on to it, let the enemy shell it as much as they please—a patriotic and gallant determination which, we trust, will result in defeat of the enemy's designs.

But should Mitchell be largely reinforced -should he bring to bear upon Chattanooga more than one gunboat-should he succeed in getting possession of the city-what will be the eituation of Georgia? We pass by Georgia's cut off from supplies of salt, coal provisions, and the obstruction and partial destruction of the State road, these being certain consequences of the capture of Chat tanooga, and turn to consider the consequences to the State from the raids of the enemy. Our mountain country will become pasture fields for the enemy to feed upon, and summer it in, and as he gathers strength from reinforcements, he will be as certain to advance into the interior, and towards Atlanta, as he is an as we before intimated, only be prevented by the organization of a force to oppose his progress, and it must come from the militia of the State. Like Virginia, every man able to bear arms that can be armed, will have to take the field. Our people must pre-pare for this. They must be ready. The Governor will have to enforce his orders to the militia officers of the State to organize and be ready for the field. We are no alarmists, and have no desire to create excitement among the people. We are not blind, nor will we shut our eyes to the truth that Georgia is in peril should Chattanooga fall into the hands of the enemy. As "sentincls up-on the watchtower," we therefore, with the signs before us, "sound the alarm.

A PAINFUL MISTAKE .- By the mistake of an apothecary at Winchester, Ind., last Third week, a quantity of antimonial wine was sold to a Methodist society near that place, for sacramental purposes. It was a quarterly meeting occasion when the wine was FIFTEEN YEARS' EXPERIENCE, taken, and the effect was frightful. Although it was a serious matter, the sinners, owing doubtless to the hardness of their hearts, did laugh excessively as the brethren and sisters, in gangs of from a half dozen to a dozen, were leaving the church, depositing the contents of their stomachs in their hats and aprons as they went.

Boiler Explosion .- A steam boiler explosion took place last Monday morning at the mines of E. W. McGinness, on Mill creek, Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, resulting in the death of Cornelius Dyer and John Curry, and slightly injuring five or six other men employed about the mines. The boilers, three in number, were thrown entirely off their beds, and the engine-house torn to pieces. The accident is supposed to have been occasioned by the stoppage of the flow of water into one of the boilers.

A correspondent writes that General Gideon J. Pillow has fallen into disgrace with the Secessionists. He is now living near Oxford, Mississippi, terribly awakened from his dream of martial glory; knowing he is a butt and jest even with the people he declared himself determined to save from Northern invasion.
